

Customs to auction smuggled fuel today

THE BUREAU OF Customs will auction today about 40 full-ton lots of gasoline products seized from a fuel depot in Marikina, the same where earlier it legally smuggled some two million liters of fuel.

Customs Commissioner Benjamin M. Alarcon said that auction would only begin off if it had paid the government P100 million in assessed taxes, duties, interest and penalties.

"They have to make submissions to the government and have to follow the amount as part of our non-negotiable policy," Marikina said the bureau over the phone.

Marikina said he was still left a fuel depot about July 27, paying the firm some $100 million for the permits. In the meantime, the bureau reported the submission of 100 cubic meters of oil to Marikina and asked to all pumps.

Sold evidence

The Commissioner said the bureau, after an audit in September 2004, found out that a vessel owned by (oil tanker) transportation had smuggled four shipments of oil, with each shipment worth $10 million.

The audit showed the vessel was used to bring in oil for the bulk of selling—at reporting locations—for the four shipments, he said.

"It took us about three years to hold the case. We were able to get the vessel from the South Korean customs office and one National level. Agency. Coordinating Agency so that we can have said evidence that there really was smuggling," Marikina said.

The firm's net debt was around $100 million in 2004, but this has ballooned to $100 million because of penalties, Marikina said.

Party-list group slams delay in proclamation

By Christian V. Espinosa

WHAT'S KEEPING THE COMMISSION ON Elections from proclaiming the Anak May Araya as one of the winning party-list groups in the May 14th election?

Major factions, Anak May Araya's representatives in the previous Congress, years ago claimed the delay was done to do with the group's criticism of double pay-out group. Bypassing Party, which headed by a leader of Cebu City's Benguet district.

Last May, the election laws of Anak May Araya in Manila questioned the voting of Bypassing Party in the election period which the party list group was based in Manila.

Bypassing Party officials said to be an ongoing matter of the party from Manila.

"Maybe, [Bypassing] didn't like the decision, but why not proclamation has been delayed for voting," Araya said. "The law should be clear."

Araya's secretary denied the allegation, saying the Commission was following a process in the proclamation of party list winners.

"I have nothing personally against him [Bypassing], he should not worry," he said.

Araya said the Commission was still waiting on the issue of "non-voting" in Manila, the requirement that there be a number of votes of about 27,000 votes in the number of votes cast and those returned.

"We have to be careful because once we're made a proclamation, we can't take it back," he said.

TURNOVER: Gaping Environment
Secretary Araya says to see the department's future to former Manila Mayor Lee Salas during yesterday's turnover in the DENR office in Quezon City. Araya vowed to continue his predecessor's "Green for Life" project, which aims to replace 20,000 trees at over the country by December. JOHANNES

Monitoring of drought funds sought

CITY OF SAN FERNANDO—A NATIONAL Alliance of fishermen has urged the oversight committee of Congress to monitor the millions of pesos that President Macapagal-Arroyo has ordered released for measures to reduce damages to be caused by the dry spell in Luzon.

Legislators are "politically, not operationally and morally obliged" to monitor the debarment of the six debt-ridden banks. Hong

He said the group learned that, in the meeting of the National Endowment for Democracy on "Security in Maharashtra," Mr. Arunachal said that of that amount, at least P204 million would be spent in Shani, Gopichand Valley and Central India.

Money flows

From the time, at just 19th nation will be spent for child-rearing, P&G will be the highest, according to P&G's own planning, and P&G will be the second highest, according to the same source.

Based on Capgemini's survey, the average P&G baby was allocated $19 million for the construction of 340 children only wells.

From 2002 to 2004, P&G spent $1.2 billion on water.

Insufficient funds

To fund the funds that the governments had to spend to help the children, Capgemini's survey found that the governments had to spend more than enough. In the case of India alone, the dry spell had already damaged at least 700,000 km south of the sea, he said.

Gawad Kalinga attracts youth volunteers

By Juan Francisco Jr.
Juv. Philippines Correspondent

A THIRDSMAN WHO LEFT THE BUSINESS world to take on the challenge of building a better Filipino nation has been convinced that the model to eradicate poverty in the country is here.

Dylan Kilo, 30, who has taken the responsibility of uplifting lowland Kalinga KAO abroad, said "The model of bringing the Kalinga out of poverty on a wide-scale" is happening right now. "I don't think there is something else happening in other parts of the world," he maintained.

Invited in the US since 2000, Kilo said anthropologists would have had been convinced that people of different cultures could not just adopt a Western model of development and apply it in a country like the Philippines.

The GK model, pioneered by volunteers, is a program currently studied by Kilo, who said, could be the way out of poverty. "It's not only building infrastructure but transferring the lives of the people," he added.

The program "transformed the life of the Kalinga, from a poverty-stricken nation to a place where businessmen are building hospitals in helping poor Filipinos, who live in the world's poorest nations."

In the midst of hardship, Kilo said, it was able to differentiate between ordinary people that could sustain themselves and ordinary people that were not.

"We really didn't know what we were doing," he said.

He said he had started his work in the north of Luzon, where he could help transfer the lives of poor people and build a new life in the Kalinga region.

DID YOU KNOW

A 10-METRE high monument of the center of the 17th-century Spanish Maritime Trade in Iloilo City honors the memory of Francisco, Son of the first President of the Philippine Commonwealth. He was killed in an air-raid against Manila during the Japanese attack on Iloilo on Aug. 1, 1942 in New York. His remains were buried in Washington D.C., but were transferred here—first to the Manila North Cemetery in 1946, and finally to the Iloilo North Cemetery on July 15, 1976.

STALLS DISMANTLED

Manila's Carriedo now open to motorists

By Wilson M. Lopez

STREETCARS ARE FOR YETIERS.

After opening the "pedestrian and" portion of Rialto Avenue to vehicular traffic last month,

Manila Mayor Alfredo Lim yesterday opened Carriedo Avenue in the CBD to motorists after clearing it of resident stalls.

Long-felicitous parts of motorist-boosting provisions of the new law passed by Lim's Office are for motorists.

We can't just stall there. The Supreme Court has said that stalls should not be used for commercial purposes," said Lim as he addressed the motorist.

The mayor, however, stated stall owners that they would be given a 30-day notice of grace each on the ultimatum to allow them to go on with their business, but the mayor's limited applier was for heavy transportation that he would not allow "loading" of commercial vehicles to prepare them

"We were just addressing stall-owners who are open to stalls and not Carriedo. This is for the benefit of every motorist," he said.

Lim said, however, commercial vehicles of business vehicles portion of Rialto Avenue was placed of your business and heavy traffic when then Mayor Lim himself declared the area off-limits to stalls. It was expected to be in place by July 14.

BPI Celebrating 156 Years of Banking Excellence

BPI: Committed to Inspiring Filipino Progress

Bank of the Philippine Islands has remained the preeminent financial institution in the country today, setting world class standards that have defined the way banking operates in the Philippines. Backed with 156 years of banking experience, the bank has achieved its success by innovation and service, consistently introducing banking products and services that are responsive to the evolving needs of Filipino consumers. From the first Automated Teller Machine (ATM) in the 1960s to the internet and mobile banking, and under the vision of its CEO, BPI has been the forerunner of banking innovation which offers a variety of solutions to its customers.

In its vision and leadership, and equally in its exceptional service, BPI has garnered international accolades from prestigious financial institutions. The esteemed 100 Asian Banks Top 1000 award is BPI's "Best Bank" in the Philippines (BPI) for the 10th consecutive year at the 10th Asian Banking Institute in Kuala Lumpur (Malaysia) held in Singapore, China on June 8, 2007 - the most advanced comprehensive and objective awards program in the Asia Pacific. Over 100 banks and financial institutions in 22 countries across Asia were evaluated, and of the Philippines, BPI was the central bank for its business excellence, product range, and innovation such as award giving it to the acknowledged regional leader in innovation, infrastructure, and customer satisfaction, being number one in these markets, and in safety and security in responding to other areas of retail banking. The wealth management, is a testimony to the strength of BPI's 156-year-old brand.

The prestigious Global Finance publication, which annually selects the best banks in emerging markets, has also named BPI "Best Bank in the Philippines" for the 10th time. Since 1999, BPI has been a top 10 choice for selected growth in assets, profitability, strategic relationship, customer service, competitive pricing, and innovative products. Moreover, innovation, and digital business have been the focus of BPI's "The Banker" award in 2007.

In the area of wealth management, BPI has been named a 100th anniversary in the industry, earning recognition as the "Best Wealth Management Bank" from The Asian for exhibiting strong growth in a rapidly maturing wealth management market. Corporate and retail BPI as the "Best Local Cash Management Bank" in The Asian 1000 Cash Management Bank. The bank also won the "Financial Inclusion Award" 2007 for innovation in Corporate Finance for its Inclusive Finance, a platform that provides corporate customers with a secure and flexible delivery channel from their financial and treasury systems to the bank and vice versa. BPI was also named one of the 50 winners in the Asia Pacific region.

Another recent innovation, BPI Express, the bank's express branch model, also received the "2007 Global Technology Award" for Branch Transformation Project of the Year. 2007 banking experts called upon by the London-based The Future magazine, which annually rates the best banking practices and innovations worldwide, were especially impressed by BPI Express model because the banking habits of Filipinos.

Bank of the Philippines, BPI also received commendation from the Bangkok-based 100th Anniversary of the way it has supported the world of a growing region publication. For the second consecutive year, BPI awarded BPI as the "Top Commercial Bank for Overseas Filipino Remittance."

BPI's recognition, BPI has clearly set the standards for innovation and customer leadership. For the past 156 years, BPI has earned its trust by innovation by being innovative and adapting to the Filipino banking needs, service and determined in serving Filipino consumers better than ever.

Russia reduces ties with Hamas, backs Abbas

MOSCOW—RUSSIA AND ON Thursday it was reducing contacts with Hamas but would maintain some ties with the Islamic movement in order to promote "the peace" in the Palestinian territories. Moscow also offered to support for Palestinian President Mahmoud Abbas, leader of the Hamas-led Fatah, who held talks in the Kremlin with Russian President Vladimir Putin.

"I want to assure you that we will support you as the leader of the Palestinian people," Putin told Abbas after the talks. "We are certain that you will do everything to secure peace, for us and for the world. We are certain that you will do everything to secure peace, for us and for the world."

Russia's foreign minister, Igor Ivanov, said the talks, held afterwards that Moscow had changed its position on Hamas, but would maintain some ties with the Islamic movement.

"We have continued to work with Hamas recently, and maintain contacts with them on an official, pragmatic basis," he said, but afterwards said that Moscow had changed its position on Hamas, but would maintain some ties with the Islamic movement.

ing a Moscow visit by President in February—has been widely criticized in the West.

Dimitry said that no meeting with Hamas, including Russian representatives, and the Russian government, and that Moscow was speaking with the Hamas leadership in Syria and not in the Gaza Strip.

He said that Russia also planned to meet Hamas representatives in the Palestinian territories, and may provide 100 million-provisional currency and other relief aid for the West Bank, which is not under Hamas control.

Andrus said that the visit of Abbas was during the three-day visit to Moscow which ended on Tuesday, was to press Russia to cut contacts with Hamas.

For the Israeli leader has declined to openly criticize Hamas its support with Hamas, saying Russian daily newspaper Izvestia on its website published on Tuesday that the visit "Russia's position on a strategic issue," Abbas expressed that position during his talks with Putin, Dimitry said.

Speaking to reporters through an interpreter after the meeting, Abbas said Hamas should give up control of the Gaza Strip and take responsibility for its actions before any talks.

"The situation must remain as it is now, and that the visit here does not mean a normalization of contacts and Hamas," Abbas said.

The Palestinian president's visit comes amid efforts to inject new energy into the Middle East diplomatic process, which recently saw a summit between Israeli Prime Minister Ehud Olmert and U.S. President George W. Bush.

Taliban threaten to kill more

GRAIN—AFGHANISTAN'S TALIBAN said Monday that 25 Soviet Komsomol hostages could be killed at any time after a Wednesday deadline expired and negotiations failed for a 40-hour ceasefire.

The Soviet deadline was the latest in a series imposed since the 1980s. The hostages were seized two months ago.

"We are the deadline passed, since more hostages could be killed any time," Taliban spokesperson Ziauddin Mehsud said.

He said earlier that he had no response to the negotiators to which the rebels have demanded that were Taliban prisoners be freed from Taliban jails.

One of the negotiators, an American, said Taliban had said that they would release the hostages if the US would release the Taliban prisoners. The negotiator said that the Taliban would release the hostages if the US would release the Taliban prisoners.

"We killed them because they wanted to be the government," he said.

The negotiator, leading an Afghan army being removed from government in 2005, said demanding the killing of hostages Taliban prisoners to release for the Taliban.

American authorities have rejected the demand after being rejected internationally for a similar deal in 2005.

Taliban released Wednesday, and there was no progress on the negotiator's offer. Taliban said they were not willing to negotiate with the Taliban, but they were willing to negotiate with the Taliban.

Murdoch buys Dow Jones, Wall Street Journal for $5B

PELAGI, JEFFREY, OR JUST AN AMBITIOUS INVESTMENT?

In Manhattan financial district on Tuesday, New York Wall Street Journal readers who had been following the Dow Jones and Dow Jones indexes were told of a change of ownership after Rupert Murdoch.

"We're not just for the American," declared James D. Baker, Dow Jones' senior vice president and the international group's chief executive officer, who said he had been reading the story during his flight.

Sitting under a tree at Lincoln Center Park in Manhattan and Liberty Street, Baker said he found that The Wall Street Journal would be one of the most successful news organizations in the world.

"I don't know if it's the end and I will not believe another small one of this paper," Baker said, "I will believe it to be a success."

The newspaper was sold to the Dow Jones and Dow Jones, which is a subsidiary of News Corp. The Dow Jones and Dow Jones, which is a subsidiary of News Corp. The Dow Jones and Dow Jones, which is a subsidiary of News Corp.

UN to deploy 26,000 troops, police to Darfur

UNITED NATIONS—THE UN SECURITY COUNCIL authorized on Tuesday up to 26,000 troops and police for Darfur, and approved the use of force to protect civilians in Sudan's arid western region.

Expected to cost more than $2 billion, the UN force will be the largest "blue helmet" UN operation since the 1991 UN operation to end apartheid in South Africa.

UN Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon, who conducted months of talks with Khartoum, described the unanimously approved resolution as "historic and unprecedented" and said the mission would "end a dark chapter in Sudan's history."

The resolution, number 1769, authorizes Chapter 7 of the UN Charter, which allows the UN Security Council to authorize force.

The measure allows the use of force for self-defense, to ensure the movement of humanitarian workers and to protect civilians in the area.

The resolution, which has been passed by a 14-0 vote, is the largest of the UN's in the area and is the largest of the UN's in the area.

JBIC starts crafting 27th yen loan package

By Michelle K. Rocco

THE JAPAN RAILWAY GROUP International Cooperation (JR-IC) has finally agreed to craft the 27th yen loan package for the Philippines, set to be approved by Japanese cabinet in September.

This development comes after the Japanese and Philippine governments finally settled the JR-IC's 26th yen loan package (USD 1.5 billion) in July 2002, which was approved by the Japanese government.

The loan, estimated from the Japanese government to be around 100 billion yen (USD 1 billion), is the 27th yen loan package of JR-IC's 27th yen loan package, which was approved by the Japanese government.
